Ephrata Republican Gavin Seim who is running for Washington's 4th Congressional District, released a video this week on his site of an encounter with DHS/Border Patrol that has gathered nationwide attention.

Ephrata, WA (Mar 6, 2014) – Gavin, A rising candidate who is known for a vocal, educated stance on the Constitution, posted a video this week of an encounter he had with Homeland Security in the State of New Mexico.

“Now Most of us weren't alive in Nazi Germany..” - Gavin says as the encounter opens. He pulls up to the checkpoint with his family, ignoring the federal agent. Turning to the camera he continues talking about the constitutionality of the situation and why it's similarity to history is disturbing.

“I start conversations that need to be started.” - Says Gavin. “We all are the sentinels of liberty. I would be remiss to set an example to my children that the rights we hold to be self evident, are not worth standing up for.”

The video goes on for about six minutes as Gavin converses with the viewers and agents before they let him move on without answering any questions.

““What we're seeing here is tyranny” Says Gavin “The Constitution is the supreme law of the land. Officials and the judges alike are legally and morally bound to follow that. Alexander Hamilton reminded us that, all law which violates the Constitution is void. We must not comply with lawless behavior from government”

Resistance to checkpoints on public roads has been growing in recent years and Gavin says these are great conversations to have. “People don't always agree with me. But I stand with the Constitution and liberty. If taking these stands starts national conversations, I have succeeded and I have represented liberty.”
